

HOLMESBURG RECREATION CENTER PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA

Holmesburg has become a Philadelphia benchmark for recreation center design.

With spaces arranged along a central circulation spine, the multi-purpose Holmesburg Recreation Center offers meeting space, indoor fitness and recreation, after-school services, and senior daytime activities. Building materials are both durable and vandal-resistant, including medium security doors and hardware with stainless steel trim. The structural glazed tiles in bright shades of blue and cream that clad the outside of the building hint at the activity and energy within.

Cost: $1.2 million

Size: 4,500 square feet

Year: 2001

BKP

BUELL KRATZER POWELL
Architecture with purpose.

